

WOMAN TAKEN IN EFFORT TO RETURN BABY

NEVER BEFORE PUBLISHED AND NEVER APPROACHED

Row was, then, from the open sea through Nantuxet channel between Martha's Vineyard and Nantuxet islands and between a 6 o'clock of the Sunday the baby was to have been returned. A ship was sighted heading up through the channel, followed by a strong tide, running through the channel. Extraordinarily the boat was headed into Nantuxet Sound for Edgartown, but as far as can be ascertained never entered the Sound and must have turned back.

FEARED DOUBLE CROSS

Why? Perhaps because of sea conditions. More probably because of the presence near the spot of the removal of the coast guard cutter MacDougall, which had been ordered up from a point near Cuttyhunk Island under secret orders. According to the explanation now these secret orders were for her to take Col. Lindbergh and the baby aboard from the seaplane after its conclusion of the rescue and steam with them for New York.

Apparently the kidnappers suspected the presence of the MacDougall was an indication that they were being double-crossed. In any event, the boat was waited in vain on the Edgartown wharf and finally disappeared in the fog. One such car has been found on Martha's Vineyard and another on the mainland on the island boat Sunday or Monday.

ABOARD DESTROYER

The Boston Evening American definitely established today that one member of Col. Lindbergh's flight party that Sunday night was aboard the MacDougall. It was not Col. Lindbergh.

The person who went aboard appeared to be discouraged and shortly afterward the plane left Cuttyhunk Island, crossed the island waters and disappeared. No man's land was still under investigation with the investigation, with federal investigators having taken the long island, New Bedford, where they were taken in a coast guard boat. It is believed that federal agents suspect that the baby once may have been on Nantuxet Island. Their investigation has even included the possibility that the baby was used in the actual abduction and flown to Nantuxet and on the immediate vicinity.

The island has a flying field, but no telephone or telegraph. Evidence that Col. Lindbergh on April 3 night had been taken to associate No Man's Land with the kidnapping was given today when Ralph Wood, the island caretaker, told for the first time his observations on the island.

Wood said the Lindberghs' airplane plane approached No Man's Land that Sunday afternoon from the direction of the island and twice circled the little island at low or an altitude of 1000 feet. However, after the second circle, however, it rose and headed westward in the general direction of Block Island.

ALVA WAS NEARBY

At the time Lindbergh entered the island, the New Bedford destroyer Alcock, previously mentioned, Alcock, was lying about 1000 yards off the island, Wood said.

The Alva remained off No Man's Land all of that Sunday, putting its searchlight on the Vindicator on Monday night.

TODAY

In his last days, Letter, from a wheel chair, watched his horse racing at New York, where, if he came back he would probably find the same life as he had. He possessed great power, made useless by inherited money.

Col. Lindbergh, swindled out of $50,000 by kidnapers, was helped by shapers that successfully posed as the kidnappers, when they were in the cemetery, an old man paid the money. The child was delivered on board a certain yacht. Col. Lindbergh, who flew to the appointed place and found no yacht and no child, has said:

"I will not pay another penny in ransom until the child has been released in my presence. When the present search is ended, I predict that my friends that Col. Lindbergh will become leader of a movement to abate the present highly organized crime menace.

Reports Concerning Anne's Health Cause Worry

Hopewell, N. J., April 13.—Rumors concerning the health of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, soon to become a mother again, continue to alarm friends of the couple, despite more or less cryptic denials from officials of reports that she has collapsed. Col. Schwarzkopf, state police head, did not answer in his bulletin a question sent to him today asking for "a clear statement on the true condition of Mrs. Lindbergh's health." An earlier police statement had said there was "no perceptible change" in her condition. It is reported that the missing baby's mother had collapsed.

Today and her captain, Joseph A. Rocha, admitted he was the only pilot in the vicinity of No Man's Land that Sunday and most of the following day. He further admitted that he was boarded that Sunday by the crew of the MacDougall. The crew consisted of James Martin, Martin Vane and John Vane. The long investigation of the kidnapping brought out a possibility that the plane for the kidnapping were hatched in or near the vicinity of the island. No Man's Land is now headquarters for other pilots.

While evading the kidnappers, it is understood, the baby-plane was an extensive and intensive study of maps and charts of the Massachusetts coast, with particular attention to Cuttyhunk and No Man's Land as the ideal spot in which to surrender the baby.

Tending to support this understanding that the baby is held in Cuttyhunk Island, a letter in order to the customs agents in the New Bedford district to keep under surveillance two boats now lying in New Bedford cove.

Also tending to support the theory that John Eales, member of a former Cuttyhunk family, has been in New Bedford, is being sought for questioning in connection with the kidnapping of the baby's surrender.

No Man's Land is now under the jurisdiction of a Marine Police, District Attorney Fred C. Cross, and sent State Police Sergeant Bradford and a number of State troopers to an estate deep in the woods in the Forestate section of Cuttyhunk.

According to Phinney, when he approached No Man's Land, the estate, owned by a Boston man, a man came to the door and called "No Man's Land."

TWO MEN FLEE

A few moments later two men were seen to flee from the estate house, running down the private road out of the estate to be lost to view.

One of the men, Phinney asserted, was a man named John Eales, whom Phinney said he served a warrant for kidnapping in New York. The man was in violation of the law. In front of the house was a automobile with New York plates.

When police arrived at the house, however, they found no one there. He denied the presence of any New York car and denied any flight.

Identify Man Who Got Cash
New York, April 13 (AP)—The Sun said today that at least one man in a position to identify the man to whom the $50,000 ransom was paid.

This man is a taxi driver who delivered a note to Dr. Condon of March 12 telling him where to go and deliver the ransom for payment of the ransom and return of the baby.

The Sun says the taxi driver's description of the person who gave him the note and Dr. Condon's description of the man to whom he delivered the note closely agree and indicate the entire negotiations were handled by one man.

Scotland Yard Admits
Schofield Trails Bills
London, April 13 (IN)—Scotland Yard today admitted that a "Daily Mail" story which declared the kidnapping of Mrs. Charles H. Schofield of the New York state police was a trace money for the ransom of the Lindbergh baby.

The mail said that several ransom bills had been found in Scotland, being identified from a list of the numbers which were kept in the Schofield family by the police. The money was found in the bank notes which have been exchanged for ransom money.

Madrid press today printed rumors that the Lindbergh baby had been smuggled into Spain through Vigo.

Rev. Peacock Sure New Contact Made

Norfolk, Va., April 13 (AP)—The prolonged absence of John H. Peacock, pastor of the Norfolk Baptist church, was today reported as having been made with the Lindbergh kidnapping.

Police said he carried letters addressed to Col. Lindbergh and Mrs. Morrow, mother of Mrs. Lindbergh, together with carbon copies of telegrams believed to have been sent to Col. Lindbergh.

Michigan Circuit clerk sent five letters had been left with him, with instructions that they be posted by trainmen at the end of the division. The letters were addressed to Mrs. Morrow, Col. Lindbergh and Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, his mother.

Dickerson explained he had convinced ideas about finding the child and merely was trying to pass them on to Lindbergh. The Crown asked that he be released to go to his home.

New York, April 13 (AP)—Police said today they had no knowledge of any D. D. Dickerson of New York, the name given by a man arrested in St. Thomas, Ont. In connection with the kidnapping.

There is no police record of any such man and police here said they had asked Canadian authorities for information regarding the prisoner.

Fleischer in Canada, Heading Toward Europe
Trenton, N. J., April 13 (IN)—The search for Harry Fleischer, wanted for questioning in the Lindbergh kidnapping, turned to Canada when he was reported today having been seen during the past week in St. John, N. B.

Colonel Schwarzkopf said police were anxious to talk with Fleischer and that Canadian authorities had reported that he was on his way to Halifax with the evident intention of taking a boat from there to England.

Colonel Schwarzkopf admitted he had asked Canadian authorities to apprehend Fleischer and that he had high hopes of catching him in Halifax.

dent of State police who is in general charge of the police investigation, announced his latest clue in a bulletin.

"The investigation is being continued," he said, "and it is being advised that definite information of the kidnappers and the whereabouts of the child would be available on a boat on the property of the A. C. and company of Chicago, W. S. & Co."

"Details of reports, together with a detail of the Coast Guard, searched all boats in and near the A. C. dock and found only six barges. Two barges had just unloaded coal and four empty barges were about to be filled with fertilizer. All other boats at the dock had been examined but nothing of any importance was discovered."

ON TRAIL OF GANSTER

Col. Schwarzkopf also said Harry Fleischer, Detroit Purple gangster, long sought for questioning about the kidnapping, was reported to be planning to sail to England from New York.

"Reports were received last week," he said, "that Fleischer was seen during the past week at the New York docks, on his way to Halifax. Authorities at the docks were requested to watch for him and a careful survey of passengers boarding ships has been requested."

JAFSIE NOW KEY MAN

Dr. Condon, who, as "Jafsie," paid the ransom for the kidnapping of the baby, became the pivotal figure in the case among which all the principal new developments revolved.

Despite the ransom payment, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh again is pinning his faith on Dr. Condon's efforts. Upon the arrest of Dr. Condon, the case would be closed.

And in the office are the police trying to get by request to be placed at Dr. Condon's office if their services are imperative.

IDENTIFIED BY WRITING

Strong intimations persisted today that both Col. Lindbergh and Dr. Condon are positive that the $50,000 was given to the right persons in the kidnapers' hands.

It may be that one of the kidnappers "double-crossed" his colleagues in crime and that, eventually, Condon was able to get the ransom money through the means of a "new deal" of the profession.

Whether a new deal is in progress was a matter of conjecture. The fact that the ransom money was spent nearly four hours in Dr. Condon's hands, it is felt, is a strong assumption.

Vanderbilt Children Guarded Against Kidnapers

3 OTHER HOMES IN R. UNDER CLOSE WATCH

Plot Feared by H. D. Sharpe and Walter Knight, Son-in-Law of Vice-Pres. Curtis

Providence, R. I., April 13.—Homes of four wealthy Rhode Island families are under guard of state and local police to prevent kidnappings. It was revealed today. The guards were established last night.

The homes are those of State Senator William H. Vanderbilt at Portsmouth; Walter Knight, 24, of 71 Angel st., son-in-law of Vice-President Curtis; Henry D. Sharpe, 84, Prospect st., president of the Brown & Sharpe Manufacturing Co., and vice-president of the New England Council; and J. J. Rodell, 61 Intervale st., head of a stock brokerage firm.

Vanderbilt has a child by his first wife and twice by the second wife, who was Anne Colby of New Bedford. N. J. Sharpe's children are all grown up and it is believed kidnapping attempt may be feared against himself.

Two days ago state and local police announced receipt of anonymous communications regarding a kidnap plot.

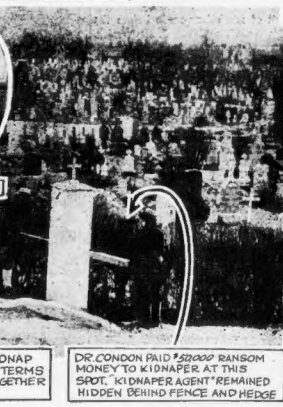

REFRESHMENT STAND MENTIONED IN NOTE

Ordered to go to this refreshment stand on the west side of Bronx ave., just north of Woodlawn station, in the Bronx, N. Y. Dr. John F. Condon received a second communication which instructed him to go to 23d st. The first note had been given to Condon by a taxicab driver. The second, at this stand, was placed under a chair. Inset shows Max Rosenheim, who accompanied Dr. Condon to Hopewell.

WHERE CONTACT WAS FIRST MADE

George L. Dudley and John M. Mansfield, Jr., Victims of Wreck at Portsmouth

George L. Dudley, for 15 years building commissioner of Somerville, was killed by a skull fracture and his body was badly burned in an automobile accident today in the outskirts of Portsmouth, N. H.

His companion, John M. Mansfield, Jr., 32, also of Somerville, was so seriously burned that physicians at Portsmouth Hospital said if he recovered both legs would never be amputated. Mansfield, one-time Democratic candidate to the State Senate in the Middlesex district and lately an automobile salesman in Arlington, was driving on the La-Payette highway when his car left the road at a sharp curve, shot down a fire-trail embankment, crashed into a tree and burst into flames.

Mansfield and Dudley had been in the car for 15 minutes when a patient at a maternity hospital and mother of a new baby.

The two men in the flaming car were discovered by A. H. Hoffman, a fireman with his car left the scene in his truck. Hoffman had the car removed to a hospital, where it was determined that Dudley was dead.

The body of Dudley was burned beyond recognition.

BANKS TOLD TO EXTEND LOANS

Washington, April 13 (AP).—The Federal Reserve System has passed along the word to member banks that they will be expected to take advantage of the loosened credit provided by the government's reconstruction program and to refrain from calling well secured loans.

This disclosure came today at about the time George L. Hartman, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, was telling the House banking committee the Federal Reserve Board had agreed to stimulate the volume and rate of purchases of government securities.

The step of the federal reserve was described by those familiar with its workings as inspired by a feeling there had been a failure on the part of the bankers to assist the government in its reconstruction program.

Blind, Deaf Brothers Helpless as Sister Burns to Death

Woodstock, Ill., April 13 (AP).—There was a story of tragedy on the mail box near the home of Lizzie Fursy, 65.

Around the box was a pair of trousers and the rural mail carrier knew it was a signal that something was wrong.

Hurrying to the house he found the woman had been burned to death.

Her two brothers, both blind and deaf, sensing that she was on fire, were helpless to aid her because they could neither see nor hear, and draped the mail box with the trousers to attract attention.

The woman's clothing had been ignited when she tried to start a fire in a stove.

Other nominations include Charles D. Maginnis, Boston, for first vice-president.

GUN GIRLS PICK WRONG

New York, April 13 (AP).—Two young women who, police said, have been making a practice of asking motorists in Brooklyn and Queens for rides then robbing them of their money, picked the wrong policeman today because they mistook a police officer for a kidnapper and selected a policeman for their victim.

The women described themselves as Helen Benington, 24, and Mary Benington, 20, and said they were sisters.

Patrolman James Ward, in civilian clothes, was about to enter his automobile in Brooklyn when the women asked him for a ride. Alice sat in the rear seat and Mary in front with Ward, who had driven only two or three blocks when, he said, May produced a revolver.

When he stopped the car at her order, he intentionally dropped some money on the floor and when she told him to get it, he picked it up, he seized the revolver and arrested them.

HOODLUMS BEAT STOREKEEPER

Patrick Laughlin, manager of a chain store in Moulton St., Charlestown, was badly beaten today by two young men.

Police said the youths are members of a gang of hoodlums that frequent the vicinity and have made trouble for Laughlin before.

Laughlin told police he thought the pair were about to rob him and he ordered them from the store. At the same time he rushed to ward the door for help.

The men then seized Laughlin, pounded him on the face and head and left him badly bruised.

Police say they know the hoodlums and expect arrests today.

Gently the officer shook William from the branches, the train, boat, airplane, or whatever fancy was in his dreams and returned him to his parents on Cross st.

The boy arose earlier than his family this morning. He roamed the streets until the library opened and continued his travels in the big book of places and things.

$1,500,000 for Poor in April, Says Curley

Possibility that the city may be required to pass out $1,500,000 in unemployment relief disbursements this month was indicated last night by Mayor Curley, who announced that for the first five days of April the payments to the poor and the jobless reached $260,000.

LOST BOY DOGS IN LIBRARY

Spring fever and the call of the open road...

Wide open spaces... no hum... even in the quiet of a branch library it makes a fellow sleepy.

William Orlando—William is experiencing only his sixth spring of life—did a lot of traveling today, but it was mostly in the well-known Land of Nod.

Patrolman Edmund J. Keane found his maverick brother policeman searched the highways and the byways of Somerville, but didn't find him in the branch library on Broadway.

A huge geography lay before him and the lad was sound asleep.

98 P. C. OF VETS "BACK BONUS DEMAND"

Washington, April 13 (AP)—The House Veterans Affairs Committee today voted 98 per cent of the rank and file of the World War Veterans are behind the bonus payment request.

Dece, who came from Sacramento, Calif., to spend the two billion dollar cash payment, said:

"Conditions are serious and the veterans need the money."

"General Hines, veterans' administrator, estimated that last year's loan advances were spent 98 per cent on the necessities of life; 20 per cent on investments; 8 per cent on automobiles and only 1 per cent on luxuries from which no benefit was received."

It was understood that Representative Fawcett (D., Tex.), who told newspapermen just before the third day's hearing began that he believed Tuesday's meeting of the federal reserve bank with the government of the 12 reserve banks had dealt with the bonus question.

"I believe the board discussed creating a presence at reflection of the currency for the purpose of effecting the movement to pay the soldiers' bonus," Fawcett said.

John H. Fahy of Watertown, Mass., external legislative chairman of the army and navy union, asked for the bonus payment, "to prove that the troops in France are not here in vain."

Stevens' Own Legion

Post Votes for Bonus

Warren, N. C., April 13 (AP)—The Warren American Legion Post, of which National Commander Henry L. Stevens is a member, has adopted a resolution favoring immediate payment of the soldier's bonus.

Commander Stevens has announced he is standing behind the decision of the national convention not to demand payment of the bonus at this time. The post has 123 members.

Auto Is Overtaken

Trying to Dodge Boy

An auto containing two men overtaken at St. Louis and Dexter at Medford, last yesterday after the driver made an unsuccessful attempt to avoid hitting a boy who, police say, ran into the street after a ball.

The front fender of the car hit the child, Charles Fitch, 6, of Dexter at Medford. He was taken to Lawrence Memorial Hospital. The auto was being driven by John E. Robitelli, 32, of Tremont at Somerville, James J. Sullivan of Somerville, also, Somerville, was riding with him.

4 LOCK WARDEN IN CELL, FLEE

Georgetown, Del., April 13 (AP)

Four young prisoners who escaped from jail after locking warden William V. Morris and his 12-year-old son in a cell were at large today.

Taken by surprise as he entered the cell of an ill prisoner last night, Morris was overpowered by the men who seized his keys and fled. Officials expressed the belief they escaped in an automobile parked outside.

The fugitives are James and Frank Dickerson, brothers, and George Coffin, convicted of stealing chickens, and Thomas Cahill, Jr., awaiting trial for embezzlement.

O'BRIEN CHOSEN DEMOCRATIC TREASURER

Washington, April 13 (AP)—Arthur O'Brien of Washington, D. C. was elected today as treasurer of the Democratic "country fund" organization.

He succeeded James W. Grant who resigned recently as treasurer of the Democratic national committee.

This was virtually the only change in the nonpartisan organization during an executive session of the "Minute Men" in charge of the $1,000,000 drive.

Joseph Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, will continue to be the drive.

The meeting was a part of the drive in connection with the gathering of Democrats at the Waldorf Hotel for a referendum on celebration, Shouse, chairman of the national committee of the "Minute Men" gathering.

Smith was the center of a concerted rush after the meeting. Bucky-faced and smiling, he shook hands with the group about him.

"We're going to win in November," he said in response to a query.

When asked if he would take this stump this fall, he said it was a little too early to talk about it.

John W. Davis, like Smith, a former Democratic presidential nominee, came along about the time and Smith and Raskob were over for handshakes and a word with him.

ROOSEVELT HAS 216 PLEDGED DELEGATES

Washington, April 13 (AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's victory over Speaker Garner and Gov. William H. Murray in Nebraska and his winning of Kentucky's delegation ran his delegate lead for the Democratic presidential nomination today to 216.

With Illinois in Republican hands in doubt, President Hoover, by gaining 13 in Missouri, 18 in Florida and 17 in Nebraska, jumped his total strength to 338 for renomination.

Each national convention has 1204 votes, with 720 or two-thirds required to nominate for the Democrats.

LEWIS HAS 50 PLEDGED
Next to Roosevelt in Senate, Hamilton Lewis of Illinois with that state's 50 district delegates pledged and 3 at large to be named in state convention.

Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri has 36 Gov. Murray 25 Alfred E. Smith one, and 104 are in doubt.

Judge Henry Homer of Chicago, sponsored by the Democrats, and Leon Small, twice Republican governor of Illinois, were chosen to open each other for governor.

Nearly all Illinois' best known Congressmen were renominated.

WYOMI RENOMINATED
Stanley M. Kunt, whose seat was confirmed a week ago, was defeated by Lee Kitchell.

Peter C. Grand, who whom Kunt contested for the House seat, was renominated by the Republicans.

For congressman-at-large, Richard Yates of Springfield, incumbent, and either Julius Klein of Chicago or Stephen A. Day of downtown, seemed to be the Republican nominees, and Walter Nesbit of Belleville and Martin A. Brennan of Chicago the Democrats.

Oscar Deparis, Negro Republican, was renominated by almost four to one over his closest opponent.

Women Wets Abandon Teas to Speak in Votes

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Covering 1932 International News Service Washington, April 13 (INS)—The Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform today entered the second phase of its existence.

After almost three years of organizing, propagandizing, and finding its own strength, the association founded by Mrs. Charles H. Sablin is ready for action. Given from 17 members today, it is now a club to be prepared with in the planning of the next campaign.

READY FOR ACTION
From now on, it will stand squarely in the political arena and fight its self-chosen battle with the regular weapons of the game. Its skill remains to be seen. But it is perfectly apparent in impartial observation that the preparatory stage is over.

The whole tone of this annual meeting which will close this evening, is one of feet-on-the-ground practicality. Every move, every plan, every sentiment is utilitarian.

TO SPEAK IN VOTES
A new spirit was touched off in "getting down to brass tacks" contested for the House seat, was nominated by the Republicans.

For congressman-at-large, Richard Yates of Springfield, incumbent, and either Julius Klein of Chicago or Stephen A. Day of downtown, seemed to be the Republican nominees, and Walter Nesbit of Belleville and Martin A. Brennan of Chicago the Democrats.

LOST THE GROUP OF POLITICIANS, SAYS CURLEY

By HERBERT A. DOHERTY
Governor Ely, Senator Walker and other Bay State supporters of Governor Smith were disappointed today by Mayor Curley as a "group of useful politicians hoping to profit by the cheap capitalization" of Smith's name.

The mayor, who spoke tonight at rallies in Quincy and Brockton, received an ovation when he appeared today.

That the sincerity of the campaign waged against great odds for Romney has received its reward, the mayor declared, is attested by the cordial and enthusiastic reception received by his supporters in every section of the state.

SACRIFICED WORTH WHILE
"The sacrifices that have been made so unselfishly by the friends of Franklin D. Roosevelt have been worth while," he said.

There have been times, when pangs of disappointment and disillusionment struck, when he observed the spectacle of the political marketplace of the Democratic party who have descended to the depths in the race against the campaign.

Walker's Former Aid Arrives to Survey Political Field

Charles Hand, former secretary to Mayor Walker of New York and for more than 15 years a political writer in that city, has arrived in Boston to make a survey of the political situation in Massachusetts and New England.

"Charlie" is working in the interest of one of the Democratic presidential candidates, but did not reveal which one.

"No mystery about my visit," said he cheerily today at the Empire Plaza, where he is stopping for a few days. "You know Massachusetts is a great state, and with things getting hot between Smith and Roosevelt forces, we thought we'd come over and get a close-up look at the situation."

Asked about the gold medal recently presented to him by the City of the Brooklyn Eagle on behalf of the public, "Charlie" said:

STILL MAYOR'S FRIEND
"It was that my 'vive la bête' was something of the sort. I tried to stop it but my good friend had insisted that the citizens had made subscriptions and that it would have to go through."

He thought I had served in these days of depression to chuck up my job as commissioner of sanitation with a salary of $17,500 and for a private citizen.

"Understand Mayor Walker and I are with the best of friends, but I couldn't get along with a certain."

"Charlie" Hand is as much of a fashion plate as "Jimmy" Walker, his former boss, for whom he worked as secretary three years.

He was political editor of the New York World for 10 years and wrote politics for the New York Journal.

Youngstown, O., April 13 (INS)—Another claimant to the title of the world's tiniest baby was revealed today at Craig Beach, a summer resort.

The infant is Eugene Albert Jordan, whose weight at birth was 15 ounces. His twin sister, who weighed 13 ounces at birth, died at the age of 20 days.

Eugene, however, is growing into a healthy man quite rapidly, according to his doctors. He was three months old today and tipped the scales at 42 ounces.

WALSH TO MAKE 3 SPEECHES FOR SMITH

Senator David I. Walsh will make three speeches for Alfred E. Smith before the primary, beginning the latter part of next week.

In revealing the senator's plan, Deputy C. DeWitt, secretary to Gov. Ely, said he was authorized by Senator Walsh to say that "the reason Gov. Smith is being opposed is because a few days in the beginning got together in the interest of one who is pitting-pointing on prohibition."

EAST BOSTON RALLY
At an evening rally in East Boston, James H. Brennan, Democratic member of the governor's council, was vigorously cheered for characterizing Gov. Ely as "a better Republican than Frank G. Allen, his predecessor."

Former Governor John F. Fitzgerald declared that Brennan should be the last man in the world to make that statement.

"No man has been shown greater courtesy by Governor Ely than Brennan," the former Mayor stated, "the more than the hundred occasions the Governor has allowed Brennan to represent him on state and other occasions. He should know more than anyone else the difficulty that the governor has experienced in getting a Republican committee to confirm his appointments."

DEMOLISH SPEARS
Secretary DeWitt, speaking for Governor Ely, said that his chief and Senator Walsh were attending an anniversary dinner in a dining room in Cambridge in Pittfield.

Other speakers at the East Boston meeting included Rep. John Higgins, former Top. Thomas A. Vailard, Mayor Lawrence N. Quinley of Chelsea, and Vincent Briggs, Pop. William H. Hoar, president. Former Mayor Fitzgerald also spoke at rallies in Cambridge and Jamaica Plain.

Tenight Governor Ely and Senator Fitzgerald will head a long list of speakers at a Smith rally in Dorchester High school.

MCCOY NEW GARNER SPEECH

Los Angeles, April 13 (INS)—William Gibbs McCoy, whose speech to a great radio audience Monday night made a tremendous impression throughout the state, will continue his campaign for Garner tonight with an address to a mass meeting in Pasadena.

Dr. Z. T. Malby, chairman of the Democratic state committee, will preside.

John E. Sawyer, a leading business man of that district and a writer for the California Jewish Voice, is for Garner. In common with many of his neighbors he shares his registration from Republican to Democratic.

Garner has a strong following in the mining camps and the cattle country of Eastern California and Northern Arizona. Maurice Waterbury reported to Garner headquarters in the Alexandria Hotel.

'BOSSY'S' CASE GOES TO THE GRAND JURY

Newburyport, April 13.—(AP)—Mayor Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis was held for the grand jury today on a charge of unjustly accusing fireman Frank E. Coffey of being a bootlegger, in the Gillis weekly, "Arborea."

Edward Webb, an employee of Gillis, was also held. Bail was set at $100, personal recognizance, for each.

Witnesses for Gillis testified to paying liquor from Coffey, who denied it, and Judge Oscar H. Nelson said:

"Someone has committed perjury in this courtroom and I don't propose to deal with a case of perjury."

DOESN'T BELIEVE HIM
John S. Robinson testified that he (Robinson) sold alcohol to his store in Market at, and once left Coffey in charge there, and that during his absence alcohol was sold.

Regarding this, Judge Nelson said:

"There has been an admission by one man in this courtroom that he broke the law and publicly sold liquor. I ought to order his arrest but I am not going to, because I don't have him. I will let the district attorney deal with him."

William Costello testified to buying liquor from Coffey at $1.50 a pint in Liberty st. and H. S. Nutter said he bought some at the Newburyport football game.

ATTACK EACH OTHER
Coffey, whose recent appointment in the fire department induced Gillis' attack, denied ever selling liquor and produced an array of witnesses to exonerate him. He objected strenuously also to Gillis' reference to him as "Gumbold" Coffey, while Gillis protested over a reference to his paper as "a hand-bill."

Judge Nathaniel N. Jones, who sentenced Gillis to jail while he was mayor, declined to sit and Judge Nelson substituted for him. A large crowd filled the courtroom and all who could not find seats were barred from the building.

WYOMOUTH TOWNSHIP STOP 'EXILING'

Weymouth town officials today explained that no families are to be evicted as a move to reduce welfare expenses there, but that nearly 50 families, including 150 children, will soon be deprived of town aid because they moved to Weymouth within the last five years.

They have been aided through a reciprocal agreement with the town from which they came, under the law that places that town, responsible in which the ones aided lived more than five years.

But reimbursement from the towns of "lawful settlement" has been slow, Weymouth town fathers testified, with the result that the March town meeting temporary aid was limited to three months.

After June 7 such aid will cease. A provision for removal of families from the towns from which they came was wrongly interpreted as an order of eviction but amounted to an offer for moving at town expense, William Hannaford, selectman chairman, pointed out today.

Commenting on the Weymouth matter, Chairman Simon C. Heist of the Boston welfare board said no such action was contemplated here.

Damaged Eagle Boat to Be Target
San Pedro, Cal., April 13 (AP)—The U. S. Navy eagle boat 34, badly damaged April 3 in a collision with the English freighter, Javaca, near Prince, will end her days as a target for naval gunners.

Orders were received from Washington today to strip the hull, preparatory to sinking the craft by gunfire.

Springfield Woman Enjoys Life at 102
Springfield, April 13 (AP)—This city's oldest woman, Mrs. Frances Oldendick, will observe her 102nd birthday tomorrow at the City Hospital. Though bedridden, she appears to enjoy life and takes interest in affairs. Other inmates are planning to recognize the anniversary.

Sir William Ray in British Parliament
Richmond, Surrey, Eng., April 13 (AP)—Sir William Ray, Conservative, was elected to the House of Commons by acclamation today, succeeding Sir Newman Moore, who resigned to become president of the Dominion Steel & Coal Corp. of Montreal.

981 Rescued From Stranded Jap Ship
Tokio, April 13 (AP)—A Bangko News Agency dispatch from Hakodate today said all the 980 passengers aboard the steamer "Taisan" No. 5, which ran aground in the Kuriles, had been rescued. The 30 men of the crew also were taken off.

N. Haven Man Held on Desertion Charge
New York, April 13 (AP)—James Robinson, 35, a plumber, was held in $500 in Brooklyn today for extradition to New Haven to face a charge of deserting his wife and three children.

GOV. CASE CALLS RELIEF PARLEY

Providence, R. I., April 13 (AP)—Anticipating extension of the unemployment emergency into 1933, and pointing out that Rhode Island had 40,000 men, women and children dependent on public aid, Gov. Cesa today called a state-wide conference to meet April 22 to cope with the relief problem.

Bankers, industrial leaders, state and national officials, labor and veterans' organizations, welfare directors and prominent educators and economists were included in a list of 100 the Governor summoned.

Rhode Island has already made $1,500,000 of state funds available for cities and towns as an unemployment loan fund, and the present General Assembly has before it a bill directing $1,000,000 of highway funds to the use of public aid departments of its 39 cities and towns.

Caillaux Approves Monetary Parley
Washington, April 13 (AP)—Joseph Caillaux, former premier of France, in a letter received today by Chairman Sumner, expressed himself as in "complete agreement" with the House coinage committee's advocacy of an international monetary conference.

After receiving Caillaux's letter, the committee continued its study of silver and monetary metals.

College Reinstates 'Cane Juice' Author
Baton Rouge, La., April 13 (AP)—Dr. John Earle Uhler, associate professor of English dismissed by Louisiana State University for writing the novel "Cane Juice," which the supervisors charged reflected on the institution, has been reinstated.

The novel, attacked bitterly by the Rev. Monsignor Gasser as a reflection on Louisiana's Creole population.

Troop Move Alarms Japs in Shanghai
Shanghai, April 13 (AP)—Tension between Chinese and Japanese factions in Shanghai increased today as the result of Chinese troop movements in the Lungtung and Pootung districts.

At the same time, rumors spread that a force of 1000 plain clothed Chinese gunmen was preparing to seize control of the Nantao area adjacent to the French concession.

ENGINEER-GOD NOW APPEARS IN RUSSIA
By GILBERT SELDES

ON THE SURFACE the failure of the great Russian automobile plant is something to make Americans laugh. The plant was built by American engineers and operated by agreement with Henry Ford, using his patents and hoping to turn out 144,000 trucks and cars a year.

At the opening ceremony a speaker said: "When we place the U. S. S. R. at the wheel of an automobile and a moujik on a tractor, let the venerable capitalist boasting of their 'civilization' try to reach us."

After three months production has stopped, and if any venerable capitalist can smile after looking at his own income and the Government income tax, this is the time for him to do so.

GILBERT SELDES

Nevertheless, it would be ungenerous, as well as premature, to exult in the setback. We have always had an equivocal attitude toward Russia, announcing one day that they can't possibly do it and demanding the next day that they do everything perfectly and immediately. There have been difficulties and discouragements even in America, which moved gradually in the development of industry. The Russians with their profound and fanatic devotion to The Five Year Plan may be disappointed.

Specialist—King

The importance to America lies not in this temporary failure, but in the attitude of mind of the high officials who investigated the reasons for it. These reasons are made clear in an official manifesto published by the central committee of the Communist Party, blaming the Communist organization which was running the factory for breaking down party solidarity and accusing it of a crime which, I believe, is new in the history of mankind: "slander of the engineering and technical personnel." The great name of Lenin is invoked and this always measures the gravity of the offense. Lenin, it is said, demanded "absolute obedience to the will of . . . the Soviet manager during working hours," and denounced the old institution of "democratic meetings"—that is, the habit of holding conferences not in the directors' room, but in the factory.

Deus Ex Machina

The new crime suggests that there is a new king and possibly a new god in the Russian world—the figure we Americans know casually and humnily as the engineer. In Walter Ruckey's "Working for the Soviets" there is an excellent account of the transitional stage when the engineer was not yet deified. Communists were not yet certain that they were willing to sacrifice all for success in the factory. The old habits were still powerful. Even in Moscow, when Mr. Ruckey returns to give his report, the experts were quite likely to object to a technical device because it seemed to conflict with some theory in Marx or Lenin. I judge that now Stalin and his associates have not only decided that the engineer shall be absolute master, but have found the proper quotations in their sacred books to justify his position.

The Old Market

The Russian Ford factory is situated at Nizhni-Novgorod, an ancient city. The fair and market place used to be photographed in the old travel movies to show us how old and primitive the heart of Russia was. With their usual instinct for dramatic contrast, the Russians placed the largest factory of the most modern and most revolutionary instrument of capitalist civilization in this city. The old city seemed to take it quietly, but it struck back. It warned the Communists as effectively as the burning of Moscow warned Napoleon.

The New Sin

Even the roughest reports on Russia have not persuaded me that industrialism is bound to fail there. Even the most enthusiastic reports have not convinced me that a successful industrialism will be an uncorrupted benefit. I think that if Russia wished to turn the laugh on the capitalist it might have done so more effectively by showing a happy and civilized peasantry than by creating the god which in our democratic chaos we have refused to accept—the engineer god to defy whom is less majestic and to slander whom seems to be a gross impiety.

5 NATIONS BACK RAIL OFFICIAL IS U. S. ARMS PLEA KILLED IN FALL

Geneva, April 13 (22B)—Italy, Brazil and Turkey today joined Great Britain and Switzerland in backing the American proposal for abolition of aggressive arms.

Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy laid before the general disarmament conference a plan for progressive reduction of land, sea and air armaments after first approving the American plan, which dealt solely with land forces.

The Italian proposal called for progressive destruction of battleships, airplane-carriers and submarines. Grandi was vague concerning limitation of air armaments.

New York, April 13 (AP)—John A. Mobley of Houston, Tex., general counsel for the Missouri Pacific Railroad, was killed early today when he fell or jumped from a ninth floor window of the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Mobley was about 55. He was a member of the law firm of Andrews, Sternman, Louge and Mobley, with offices in Houston.

He registered at the hotel last night with a friend, John B. Sherry of Mission, Tex., who took an adjoining room. They visited a local club and returned to the hotel early today.

Sherry was in bed when informed of Mobley's death.

ORGANIZER NOW AT AMOSKEAG

Manchester, N. H., April 13—Horace A. Rivera, general organizer of the United Textile Workers of America, and leading figure in the Lawrence strike last year, entered the difficulties at the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co. mill today.

Rivera, who announced a mass meeting of workers will take place Monday, charged that 2000 employees have been discharged because of the recent vote at the mill in which wages cut of 6 to 10 per cent were rejected by the workers.

He blamed Frederic C. Dumaize, treasurer of the Amoskeag, for what he termed "a move to break the spirit of the workers."

Dumaize was in Manchester today in a conference with Gov. John G. Winant and Edward French, Boston & Maine Railroad president. They said they meeting was to discuss a tax reduction for the mill and a railroad freight reduction.

Starvation Facing Cattle in Argentina

Buenos Aires, April 13 (AP)—Starving livestock throughout Western Argentina, where the grass is covered with volcanic ash today formed the chief problem remaining from the volcanic eruptions of the early part of the week. Many ranchers were sending their cattle southward to save them from starvation. The volcanic activity has ceased.

Terrier Who Barked Around World to Be Given Medal

Schenectady, N. Y., April 13 (AP)—"Short," the little terrier whose bark was heard around the world, is to receive a medal for his accomplishment.

Mrs. Diana Behla, president of the New York Anti-Vivisection Society, wrote she desired to have a medal on "Short." She was invited to bestow the decoration April 13.

"Short," owned by a radio engineer, barked into microphones during a typhoon of an around-the-world short wave set-up. The bark came back and the terrier continued barking at himself until the loud speaker was cut off.

Senator Harris Has Chance to Recover

Washington, April 13 (AP)—Senator Harris, Democrat, of Georgia, was reported by his physician today to be "a good deal better" and to have "a good chance to get well."

The physician said the senator, suffering from a complication of disease, "looks as much better today as he did worse yesterday." At that time the physician held little hope for recovery.

CLINGS TO SHIP TO SAVE LIFE

Portland, April 13 (AP)—Capt. Charles Train, skipper of the gill netter Deleon, missed the coast while he was navigating through heavy seas off Cape Elizabeth today.

Turning the wheel over to his mate, the captain went in search of the man on whom his crew depends for insurance. He found him being towed astern, gripping a scupper with one hand.

Hauled aboard, the cook, Percy Thurston, 32, said he had been washed overboard while straightening out fish boxes forward and just caught the scupper as the vessel slid by him.

Mack Sennett Plans to Make "Featurettes" for Paramount

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service, Inc.
Los Angeles, April 13.—Mack Sennett, who reaped a glorious harvest with his bubbling beauties and Keystone comedies in the golden days of film making, is back again with an idea. This time he will make "featurettes"—comedies that are longer than the ordinary feature. Paramount today signed a contract to release these Sennett comedies.

More pictures to fill the theaters is the crying need. Paramount realizes this and in signing the products of Charles and Mack Sennett is rising to the occasion.

The Sennett galaxy includes the crooner, Bing Crosby; the singer, Donald Novis; Babe Kane, Charles Murray, Dorothy Granger, Harry Gribbon, Andy Clyde, Natalie Kingston and others who have signed for Sennett comedies.

Sally in East
The trip to New York that Sally Eilers has been promising herself is being taken alone. Hoot Gibson is all tied up with moves and for days he has been working on the first of the Hoot Gibson series to be made for M. J. Hoffman Jr. Hoot and Sally had planned this holiday in New York but business comes first and these days no job can be neglected. Sally, it is not said, will sit at Fox for a month or more, awaiting Crawford and Charlie Farrell will be started in "The First Year" instead of Sally and Jimmy Dunn as at first intended. The first Hoot Gibson chapter is to be called "A Man's Land" Marion Shilling, Robert K. Kier, Charles King, Al Bridge and Skeeter Robbins are in the cast, with Phil Rosen directing.

Finds Job
With Sally O'Neil in London and her sister, Molly O'Neil, quietly at home here we haven't heard a word about these Noonan sisters in a long time. Everything's going to be different now. Molly has found a job for herself. She plays the feminine lead in "Gigolotie," now being produced at Fox. Art, Gilbert Roland is the chief male interest. "Gigolotie," we are told, is the ultimate far gigolo, and it is the same type of story, but told in reverse English.

Wants to Direct
Ivan Lebedeff, who was one of those who made an exit at the time there was a cut in salaries at Radio Pictures, is talking about directing shows at Universal with Cyril Maumore. He wants to direct. Directing has all ways been his main ambition, and, unless something unforeseen happens, he will sign a contract. The Paul Lukas "a man's land" which was announced a few days ago has been finally signed after considerable controversy.

Hollywood Chatter
The friends of Ann Harding fear for her health. She is facing a nervous breakdown and is taking all her strength and energy to finish her picture, "Walt the Pagan," which she is now making at Radio. She was unable to work one day last week because of a bad case of laryngitis and never kept her at home. Radio is shielding her from all news.

SONS

Four hundred million Chinese... What do you know about the strange lives they lead? Their peculiar marriage customs? The insecure position of women in the home?

About their feelings when flood, famine, war and pestilence destroy their friends and neighbors?

Learn from Pearl Buck's pen how these teeming millions live. Her fiction is a mirror of war-torn China.

Pearl S. Buck is a double contributor to May Cosmopolitan. In a cable article, she tells you just what the Chinese man in the street thinks of China's present trouble.

Her new Cosmopolitan novel "Sons," successor to "The Good Earth," portrays the career of a peasant boy who becomes a war lord. So vivid and timely is her writing that you know precisely what it means today to be a warrior or a merchant or a woman in this country where passions rage.

Be sure to read Pearl S. Buck in May Cosmopolitan.

DARROW MUST WAR TO PROVE MOTIVE

Editor's Note: Mrs. Anne Kluegel, a constant spectator of the Fortescue-Massey trial in Honolulu, has written exclusively for the Boston Evening American, another sensational trial. Mrs. Kluegel won fame by leading the civic demand for legislative reform in Hawaii following the attack on the Hawaiian Islands. Her presence in court along with other prominent white women has been a source of strong consolation to Mrs. Grace Kellie.

By MRS. ANNE KLUegel
Written Exclusively for International News Service
Honolulu, T. H., April 13 (1932)—The territory of Hawaii is heaping up "silent witnesses" in an effort to convict the four Americans accused of the "honor killing" of the native, Joseph Kahawai.

Blood-stained sheets, a nightgown, the watch taken from the dead man, a blood-stained and sinister white towel, a torn blue shirt, another white shirt with cuff torn off, a woman's dainty blue dressing gown, a woman's 45-caliber revolver, a .32-caliber steel-jacketed bullet.

All these and more are among the exhibits produced by the prosecution to prove by circumstantial evidence that Mrs. Grace Kellie, Fortescue, and the two naval enlisted men, Albert S. Jones and E. J. Lord, are guilty of killing Joseph Kahawai, accused of attacking Mrs. Thalia Massey.

And yet the motive of the shooting—the explosion of the hideous crime of attack—has not once come to the surface as the trial moves swiftly to its conclusion.

In the background, silent for the most part, sits defense counsel Clarence Darrow, reminiscent of that great military strategist, Marshal Foch.

He promises to confound his enemy with surprises, to provide shock troops and reserves.

He, like Foch, knows the necessity of striking powerful and decisive blows.

That he will do so when the hour arrives no one doubts. But what can the defense produce to convince the jury that the defendants are innocent if the community itself is indifferent to attack cases?

So far as an inkling of the defense plans has been disclosed, Mrs. Jones and the others are waiting for the right time to make their move.

THIS IS LIFE

HEROIC FIGHT AGAINST ILL-HEALTH MARKED BRADFORD'S CAREER

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

A FEW WEEKS AGO I received an advance copy of Gamaliel Bradford's last book, "Saints and Sinners," published April 8, and had looked forward to saying something about the work of our finest American writer of biography. Yesterday the news came of Mr. Bradford's death at Wellesley in his 70th year, the end of a literary career which for richness of fruit, of integrity and sincerity, of variety, of courage, is hardly to be matched.

A decade ago, when I was all reading Lytton Strachey's Queen Victoria and admiring his skill and wit and ironical faithfulness to fact, Mr. H. L. Mencken suddenly threw a bombshell at us all, informing us with his usual gusto and verve, that we had in America an artist in biography more important than Strachey and that, moreover, he had been writing "Strachey's method" deliberately and consciously for years before Strachey had written even his first series of studies. He intimated especially, Bradford's portraits of the Civil War, "Lee, the American," "Confederate Portraits" and "Union Portraits," and (the then new) "American Portraits." Since then the American public has known Gamaliel Bradford and recognized him as a very great artist in his chosen field.

His chosen field, he told us himself, was not his first choice. Some eight novels and some 15 plays, unpublished and unproduced, represented the kind of writing he liked best but which apparently nobody else liked. So he turned to second choice. One may imagine that these novels and plays dealt with character, for from the beginning of his writing career in the '90s until the end he was always preoccupied with the mysteries and fascinations of character.

His first book was a little series called "Types of American Character" (1893) describing, like Theophrastus, the Pessimist, the Idealist, the Epicurean. His next book contains material dating back to 1882 and as late as 1892, all of them familiar studies of literary men in the manner to which we have since become accustomed. They were modeled on Saint Beuve and Lord Byron, and he called the book "A Naturalist of Souls," perhaps his most exquisite title out of a long list of successful titles, "Damaged Souls," "Bare Souls," "Wives," "As God Made Them," "The Quick and the Dead"—these were among the titles which attracted readers.

With that beginning we have in Bradford's 50 years of writing no less than 19 volumes containing over 100 short psychographs and four full volume-length psychographs, and all this in a kind of writing which demands continuous, thorough, and exhausting research. It is not too much to say that in writing every one of his short sketches he mastered and left uncut enough material to make a full volume. For his psychographs were not biographies, detailed life stories, but psychological studies which intended to exhibit the soul in action, by its deeds and words, and from contemporary testimony—but mostly its own self-revealing words and actions.

Each psychograph, then, involved tremendous reading at this literary home, the Athenaeum, plus a long and wearying process of selection, omission, arrangement, emphasis, coloring, and synthesis, out of which the portrait must emerge, not a fussy and detailed snapshot of reality but a painting, a composition the aim of which was to give the impression of the whole.

Handicapped by Ill Health

A wearying process, I said. It was more than that. Like one of his heroes, about whom he wrote one of his best books, Gamaliel Bradford had been an invalid from youth. He had had to withdraw from Harvard College because of illness. We are told that he was seldom able to work more than two hours a day, just as Darwin could not endure to apply himself more than one hour without collapsing. With one's working time cut down like that, Bradford's achievement became not merely extraordinary but heroic. One is reminded of the blind Prescott, the frail and shaken Parkman, also historians.

A considerable group of his portraits are American, the personages of the Civil War, those of an earlier and a later date, some of the latest being Mr. Coolidge, whom he called, happily, "The Gentleman." But he knew his French and English men of letters, and many of the women, too, with great intimacy. Indeed, he was fond of the self-revealing kind. His book "The Soul of Samuel Pepys" is the most sympathetic ever written on the subject, or that he ever wrote. And he liked to know about his heroes' women folk.

Gamaliel Bradford was not tolerant but he was sympathetic. In his latest book he treats Caesar Borgia as the representative of an age very like ours, and he is not sparing in his judgments. Nor with Casanova or Byron. On the other hand he is very gentle with Pepys and with Aaron Burr. His temper may be shown thus. A magazine editor asked him to do a series of debunking certain over-estimated heroes of history. This he refused to do. Instead he wrote the series "Damaged Souls," men of great capacity and promise destroyed by circumstance and their own natures; Burr, Benedict Arnold, Tom Paine, John Brown, Ben Butler. His aim was to show the common humanity in them, sympathy but not tolerance.

His wide and profound acquaintance with human nature as exhibited in history, allowed him to make breath-taking juxtapositions of names, where he could find traits in common no one else would have dreamed of. I remember in "The Quick and the Dead" one particularly startling coupling of the names of Abraham Lincoln and Niccolò Lenin.

Lived With His Characters

To read at short intervals his "Charles Darwin" and his "Dwight L. Moody" is to see the roots of his spiritual life. He lived—or would have liked to live—as Moody's world of unquestioning faith and untroubled piety. But Darwin, as he admitted in the chapter called "the Destroyer," shattered that world for him and for millions more. But there remained in him a good deal of the Puritan—not merely in blood, though he came straight down from the Mayflower—but in religion (if not in theology), in ethics, morals and conduct.

He once said that 10 years of living with Robert E. Lee had made a better man of him and six months with Mark Twain a worse one. So sensitive was he to spiritual forces.

Now that both he and Strachey have finished their work it can be said clearly and emphatically that although Strachey was the finer and more exquisite artist, Bradford was the more profound student of history and of the human soul, a greater hero, and, a more serious philosopher of life.

COOK-COOKS

By TED COOK

Howe Hen says Chicago doctor hypnotized a patient before removing her tonsils. That'll speed things up. Here, before doctors argued for hours convincing customers their tonsils had to come out.

SIGN OF SPRING

STELASHES DYED for two dollars. Brush gently with oil twice daily and have long sweeping lashes. Mmie. Mylle, Price Ridg.

Gals who take love in a flat find it fun, and the that.

HEAR! HEAR!

After passing the floor six days and seven nights, I tip-tyke jeeze, doctor of philosophy, has concluded that Western civilization wouldn't be nearly as surprising if all hignia would digress.

CHICAGO—A free-for-all fight in which one man was killed occurred when patrons of a speakeasy assaulted a peripatetic amateur crooner.

Q. AND A. DEPARTMENT. FOVE—During the storm and summer months, A. Bella will discontinue her practice of asserting sensational verities on the walls of public houses.

Q.—Why did you not call on a cop to capture the Peeping Tom who you claim has been bothering you?

A.—Because Aunt Bella does not call on cops. Cops call on Aunt Bella. Furthermore, the Peeping Tom was a cop.

Aunt ("In-the-Public-Eye") Bella.

Mmie critics find it handy just to say the worst of a dandy.

UH HUH! (Grunts.)

"The problem which has been faced by most leading American publishers for years has been how to improve the merchandise of books without destroying the professional dignity of let- ters."—Stanley M. Brinkard, Jr., of Farrar & Rinehart, publishers.

Smile— Out of style as the dresses hanging in dry cleaners' display windows.

Gals who read late books their work.

THIMBLE THEATRE, starring POPEYE

SO THIS IS GOOD-BYE, HAH? YES—I NEVER WANT TO SEE YOU AGAIN.

GOOD-BYE, LITTLE SWEETIE.

AHOY!! YOO-HOO! OLIVE OYL!

I JUST FOUND OUT I KIN NOT LIVE WITHOUT YA—SO THAT'S WHY—THAT'S WHY I'M HERE I AM AGAIN.

CAN'T YOU UNDERSTAND ENGLISH? I'M THROUGH WITH YOU!!

BRINGING UP FATHER

BY COLLY I CAN'T STAY AWAY! I MIGHT JUST AS WELL GO HOME AN' SLEEP 'GEE! I WITH COULD STAY AWAY!

BY COLLY MAGGIE WAS THE SPRING FEVER, TOO. SHE SPOKE LIKE A FOG-HORN.

WELL, IT'S IMPOSSIBLE TO SLEEP WITH THAT NOISE GOIN' ON.

THIS IS ALL RIGHT. SHE KEEPS HER ROOM WHILE SHE'S ASLEEP. AN' WHEN SHE WAKES UP, LULU FALLS ASLEEP.

POLLY AND HER PALS

I TOLD THAT BUNCH OF FOUR-FLUSHERS WHERE I GET OFF!!

AN' WHEN I TELL 'EM BELIEVE ME, BABY, THEY STAY TOLD!

IF THEY'S ONE PEST I HATE WUSSIN' ANY OTHER PEST! IT'S A LOUD PEST!

Y'NEEDN'T BELLER, BIG BOY! I AIN'T DEEP!

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

COME ON, JOAN—DON'T BE AFRAID—EVEN IF THERE WAS GHOSTS IN THIS HOUSE—THEY WOULDN'T COME IN THIS ROOM—CAUSE I CARED IT UP! YOU KNOW, GHOSTS LOVE DUST AN' COBBERS—AN' THEY HATE SOAP AN' WATER.

YOU KNOW YOU OWN HALF OF THE JOAN JOAN DOLLS—IT WAS YOUR IDEA—YOU WERE THE ONE WHO SOLD IT—I NEVER COULD—AN' MY MOTHER SAYS IT WOULD BE ROBBING YOU IF WE PRETENDED IT WAS ALL OURS.

GEE, JOAN—YOUR MOTHER IS JUST GRAND—AN' SO ARE YOU—BUT THAT WICKED OLD WOMAN! MESS, MEANIE! IS ANY LEGAL GUARDIAN THAT MEANS SHE WOULD GET ANY MONEY—AN' ALL I'D GET WOULD BE LOTS AN' LOTS OF ABUSE!

PLEASE TELL YOUR MOTHER TO SIGN THE PAPER, AN' THE MAN WILL PAY YOU A NICKEL FOR EVERY DOLL HE BELLS—AN' YOU AN' HER—WON'T BE POOR ANY MORE—PLEASE—PLEASE, JOAN—MAKE HER SIGN—DON'T WORRY 'BOUT ME!!

BARNEY GOOGLE

SORRY, SHE, HER ROYAL HIGHNESS SULTANA OF SULU DOESN'T WISH TO BE DISTURBED. GET OUT!

IT WAS NO USE—SURE! I WAS THERE—THE GUY AT THE GATE WOULD'N'T LET ME IN—

THE MESSAGE FOR HER MAJESTY IS VITAL—YOU MUST DELIVER IT AT ONCE—COME! I WILL ARRANGE THE APPOINTMENT MYSELF—BUT YOU MUST NOT FAIL.

ONE SIDE—YOU MUG!!

TIM TYLER'S FLYING LUCK

THIS SLEEPING POTION IS POWERFUL, BUT BE CAREFUL—HANG ON TO YOUR LADY!

INTENT SAVING THE LIFE OF THIS FRIEND, CHASING AND TAKING THE ESPECIALLY PREPARED LUNCHEON INTO THE FIRST SQUAD'S QUARTERS IN THE GARRETS AT 11 P.M.

GENTLEMEN, YOU WOULD WELCOME A BIT OF FOOD BE FORSE THE BUBBLE SOUNDS 'LIGHTS ON?—YES?

HERE'S LUCK! MEN! SEE WHAT THE CLUE WAS FOR US!

TRYING TO SQUARE HIMSELF FOR THE SLAM, DUNNIE, HE GOT 'EM COOK' 'EM OLD BARREL!

KRAZY KAT

SURE, ANY BODV CAN FLY—LOOK, JUST SPREAD OUT THIS—AND PFTT—

Y' FLY—

HAAAAA—
